Last winter they suffered very much from want of fuel and food, and the governor refused to do anything for them, and referred them to the President of the United States. They have never been in communication with the United States, having no treaty, and the President can do nothing without the action of Congress. While the legislature of Massachusetts are appropriating tens of thousands for the relief of bleeding, shricking Kansas, nothing can be done for the plundered and persecuted Indian. If the Passamaquoddy Indians were a few shades darker, and their shins and hair less straight, there would be no occasion for their present visit to Washington. We have already stated that this efficient and eloquent young democrat is a candidate for re-election to Congress in the seventh district, Tennessee; and so strong a hold has he upon the confidence and affections of the people of the district which he has already represented with such distinguished success, that it is not at all probable that he will meet with any serious opposition. A public dinner and banquet will be given to Hon. Jefferson Davis by his political friends on Friday next, at Jackson, Mississippi. A barbecue in his honor was given at Vicksburg, on the 18th instant. A telegraphic despatch from that city, dated on that day, says:

"The barbecue given in honor of Col. Jefferson Davis to-day was largely attended. Delegations were present from Yazoo city and county, Jackson, Canton, and several parishes of Louisiana. The procession, headed by the military, marched to the Court-house square, which was densely crowded. Col. Jefferson Davis spoke for an hour and a half, and was received with enthusiastic applause. Speeches were made at the dinner by Messrs. Tupper, Singleton, Roy. Graves, and Burwell. The whole affair posed off delightfully, and to the entire satisfaction of all who attended."

STATE DEPARTMENT.

An Interesting Letter from London.—An intelligent cor-respondent at London writes that the first feature which attracts attention in the Trade and Navigation Report of Great Britain for the first quarter of 1857 is the great increase, when compared with years which have been considered the most prosperous.

The exports for the month of March alone reach nearly £10,500,000, and for the quarter a fraction under £29,-000,000, none of which has been produced by artificial stimulus. During the greater part of the quarter there has been unusual stringency in the money market, and unremitting efforts have been made by the press to check any and every tendency to dangerous or foreign specula-tion as well as investments in foreign stocks. The dark side of the report is that which shows the immense im-

Sta: As directed in your letter of this date, I give below the names of the lowest bidders, a coording to the advertisement, plans and specifications for the Washington aqueduct.

The printed specifications and forms of proposals contemplate the letting of the work in several contracts to persons of experience in their several departments, though they do not exclude a contract with a single company, if that should be thought most advantageous.

There are several specifications, viz: for graduation, conduit, receiving reservoir, distributing reservoir, bridge, cust-iron pipes, branches and bends, cut stone, bricks and sand.

The lowest bidders are: For graduation on sections 14 and 15, Myers, Jones, & Pratt, $8,509.

Their guarantee is not signed, and I scarce think they would make a contract for so small a work as falls to their lot under the bidding. Still, the work ought probably to be offered to them and the contract made, if they are willing to give the proper security.

The next lowest bidder for this work is Henry Cady, $8,829.

The next lowest oldder for this work is Henry Cady, $8,862.

Mail Contract. - We understand that the Postmaste General has concluded a contract with the Southern Steamship Company for the transportation of mails twice a month between New Orleans and Appalachicola, embracing all the Gulf ports on the Florida side, at $70,000 per annum. We conceive that a more important arrangement, or one more gratifying to the people of that section of the country, has not been made for a long time, and at the same time there is every reason to believe that the service will be continued; for we are assured that the company which has secured the contract is composed of highly respectable gentlemen, in every way respector the faithful performance of their duties.

A package of $1,000 (says the New York Commercial Advertiser of Monday) was lost by the American Express Company in this city on Saturday last. The package was received at the office and placed with a number of others to be delivered by the city messenger. Among the packages were two for the Salt Springs Bank, and when the messenger arrived at the bank one of the packages, containing $1,000 in bills, was missing. It is not certainly known whether the money was dropped in the street or taken from the office. It was directed to the Salt Springs Bank, and marked $1,000.

The steamer Illinois arrived at Detroit on Saturday, the 16th, from Whiskey Bay, having made an unsuccessful attempt to reach Upper Lake Superior ports. In company with several other steamers and propellers, made their way as far up as Whiskey Bay, about twenty-five miles above the Saut, and were unable to make any further progress. She reports the lake full of ice, of a thickness of two feet, as far as the eye can reach. This will preclude the possibility of reaching Lake Superior for some time to come.

THE JUNE ELECTION. - We would call the attention of the voters of Washington to the importance of the coming election. But a few days in which to prepare for the contest yet remain, and it is well known that the opponents of a good administration of the city government are working secretly with a zeal worthy of a better cause. The errors in the advertisement of the tax-list, and the many hurtful acts of the present officers, so well known to all, should determine each voter, who has the interest of the city at heart, to bring about a salutary change by
